

Wasatch County Civic Leader Dies

July 17th 1964

George A. Fisher, 71, prominent Wasatch County businessman and founder of the town of Keetley, died Saturday at 10:45 p.m. in a Salt Lake hospital of natural causes.

He was born July 4, 1883, in Park City, to David and Mary Ann McDonald Fisher. He married Annie McMillan in Heber in 1910.

For several years managing editor of the Heber Wasatch Wave weekly newspaper, Mr. Fisher also had been a forest ranger for 10 years and a member of the Utah Legislature from Wasatch County in 1917.

He was organizer and first president of the Heber Horse and Cattle Growers Assn., member of the Wasatch County School Board, past president of the Association of Western Public Land States, executive secretary of the Utah Land

Mr. Fisher engaged in farming, sheep and cattle raising, mine contracting, the motel business and wrote a book, "Behind the Lines."

Survivors include his widow; two sons, Ford and Wilson Fisher, all of Keetley; two daughters, Mrs. R. S. (Phyllis) Heath, Denver, and Mrs. R. W. (Marjorie) Sinclair, LaCanada, Cal.; five brothers and sisters, Mrs. Ila F. Maughn and Mrs. William Trevithick, Salt Lake City; Mrs. Pratt Hicken and Gail Fisher, Heber, and Craig Fisher, Draper; nine grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Funeral services will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Wasatch Tabernacle, Heber. Friends may call at the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth Jasperson, 415 N. 1st West, Heber, Monday evening and Tuesday until time of services. Burial will be in Heber City Cemetery.

George A. Fisher . . . Was founder of town of Keetley

Slow Traffic Jitters Lead to Torment

Editors Note: This is the second in a series of articles by Tribune Medical Editor William C. Patrick on the tragic fate of persons injured in traffic accidents.

By William C. Patrick
Tribune Medical Editor

She was brought into the emergency room that hectic night in late July—the night the doctors and nurses remembered for a long time afterward.

It was hot, stifling, a mad-house; several stretcher cases—all automobile accidents—children crying, more frightened of the general scene than of their own injuries, which in most cases were not too serious.

Doctors, everybody, working at top speed to get the badly injured out of shock; to stop hemorrhage, to relieve pain; more doctors called in, the personal physicians of some of those injured.

Who was this young woman on the stretcher?

The officers bringing her in didn't know her name, but they had the identity of the car in which she was riding when the accident occurred. Her companion, a young man, had also been badly injured.

Thrown Against Windshield

She was thrown with great force against the windshield, smashing the glass. She was unconscious when brought to

The Sal

